

MAINSTREAM
WATER SOLUTIONS INC.

Join Mainstream and Watertiger at BCWWA 2010 in Whistler!

(REGINA, SK) April 21, 2010 - - - Mainstream Water Solutions Inc. of Regina, Saskatchewan, is pleased to announce that in January 2010, its MSFeSD Arsenic Removal Media product received certification from NSF International for drinking water treatment applications. This advancement means that Mainstream can now lower arsenic levels below 0.010 mg/L for communities in British Columbia and across Western Canada.

After successfully completing evaluation and testing, the product was deemed to conform to the requirements of NSF/ANSI Standard 61 – Drinking Water System Components – Health Effects. The listing now appears online at www.nsf.org.

As complete water treatment specialists, Mainstream has been striving since 1989 to provide solutions for communities across Western Canada who are seeking environmentally friendly, cost-effective, and reliable ways to remove various contaminants from their drinking water. This new Arsenic Removal Media allows Mainstream to continue to offer its customers products that achieve these objectives.

Mainstream is also pleased to announce that our Director of Research & Development, Ann Gottinger, will be speaking at the BCWWA Conference at the Small Water Systems Session on Monday May 3rd, 2010. Please stop by the Mainstream/Watertiger Booth #1024 at the Whistler TELUS Convention Centre from Saturday May 1st – Wednesday May 5th, 2010, and we'll be happy to talk to you about your specific water treatment needs!
